

WELCOME! NEW LION OR TIGER DEN LEADER

Welcome to your new adventure!

Your time volunteering in Cub Scouting will be rewarding and fun, and the information here will help you get off to the right start. With the proper training, resources, and enthusiasm, you have the ability to make a positive difference in the lives of Cub Scouts.

A den is a small group of youth — an ideal size is eight, but you may have more or less. The ideal den is formed with Cub Scouts of the same school grade. In Lion (kindergarten) and Tiger (first grade) dens, each Cub Scout is required to have a parent or other caring adult with them at all meetings and activities. As a Lion or Tiger den leader, you will not be the only adult; there will always be an adult with each Cub Scout.

Having adult partners present at all meetings and activities is a requirement because, at this age, children are still developing control over their emotions and often need a caring adult to guide them, especially during new experiences.

The Lion and Tiger den uses a shared leadership model. The den leader works with a different family each month to deliver the adventure for each meeting.

As a den leader of either Lions (kindergarten) or Tigers (first graders), you simply use the den meeting resources found in the Lion and Tiger Adult Partner Guides and on scouting.org. Den meeting resources provide fun activities to do at meetings that meet requirements for Adventures.

BEFORE THE FIRST MEETING

- 1. Register your position with the pack. Fill out the Scouting America adult application and attach your Youth Protection completion certificate. (See no. 2.) This form will register you with Scouting America and give Scouting America permission to initiate a background check for approving you as a leader. If you are already a registered leader in the pack, you still need to complete this step so your position can be approved by the pack committee and chartered organization representative.
- 2. Complete Youth Protection training and print the certificate of completion. Youth Protection training, found online at my.Scouting.org, will teach you Scouting America's policies for safely and appropriately interacting with youth. If you are already registered and have completed Youth Protection training within the past two years, you do not need to take the training again.
- 3. Complete the "Before Your First Meeting" online training modules for Den Leader training. The online training, found at my.Scouting.org, will begin building the foundation you need to become an effective and successful leader.

- 4. After your den leader application has been approved, log in to Scoutbook.com as Den Leader. Use the same username and password as the my.Scouting.org account that you set up for training. Logging in to Scoutbook.com as Den Leader will give you access to the administrative tools you need to run the den including recording advancement.
- 5. Become acquainted with your Cubmaster and the pack committee. These volunteer leaders will see that you have the information and materials you need to prepare for and conduct den meetings and activities.
- 6. Wear the Cub Scout leader uniform. The uniform is a method of the Scouting program. Wearing the uniform properly is important in setting a good example. You can purchase a uniform through a local Scout shop or through www.scoutshop.org.
- 7. Prepare for your first meeting. Use the den meeting resources found in the Lion and Tiger Adult Partner Guides. The QR codes in these guides direct you to the resources to plan activities for your meetings.

WITHIN THE FIRST MONTH

- 1. Complete all of the online training modules for Den Leader training. Once you have done this at my.Scouting.org, you are considered trained and eligible to wear the Trained patch, worn below the Den Leader position patch.
- 2. Get acquainted with the families in your den. Hold a family orientation meeting outlining the structure of den meetings and den outings, the time and location for meetings, and your den's role during the monthly pack meetings. Using the shared leadership model, where you work with a different family each month, will help you do this.

3. Get acquainted with the children in your den. Establish a den code of conduct so that everyone will know what you expect of them.
4. Attend the monthly pack committee meetings held by your pack committee chair. These meetings are led by the pack committee chair and are where pack plans are made.
5. Attend the monthly pack meeting with the members of your den and their families. In this meeting, Cub Scouts are recognized for the Adventures they have completed since the last pack meeting. They may be asked to participate by performing flag ceremonies, displaying projects completed with your den, or acting out skits or run-ons.
6. Stay informed. Attend monthly Roundtable meetings; they might be conducted in person or virtually where you live. There are national Cub Scout Roundtable videos at www.scouting.org/commissioners/roundtable-support/roundtable-planning-resources/. And tune into Scouting magazine's weekly Cub Chat Live! weekly.

Don't hesitate to ask for help. There are many people who want to help you provide the finest possible Cub Scout experience for the families in your den. As a registered Cub Scout leader, you have online access to Scouting magazine, which includes information to assist you as a leader. Also refer to www.scouting.org/programs/cub-scouts/. By the time you have completed the steps outlined here, you will be well on your way to becoming a successful den leader.

YOU, THE DEN LEADER

You were selected as a den leader and approved by the pack committee because of your abilities and character. By making the commitment to serve as a den leader, you have accepted the following responsibilities:

- Plan, prepare for, and conduct den meetings with the assistant den leader and a different family each month.

- Attend the pack leaders' meetings.
- Ensure Cub Scouts earn their badge of rank and continue in Cub Scouting.
- Coordinate shared leadership among the families in the den.

Rotate responsibilities monthly to ensure that each family has the opportunity to be the host team, planning and executing the den meeting and activities.

Assistant Cub Scout Den Leaders

The assistant den leaders share the responsibilities of the Cub Scout den leader and may assist with record keeping such as tracking advancement or handling other details of den operation. Each den should have at least one assistant den leader and more if needed.

Assistant den leaders must be 21 years of age or older, which helps ensure that there are two registered adult leaders who are 21 years of age or older at every meeting or activity. Additional assistant den leaders may be recruited to provide additional support as needed.

THE CUB SCOUT DEN MEETING

Den meetings for are often twice a month, but the frequency is up to the den leader and the families in the den. The meeting day, time, and location are set by the den leader and should be the same day of the week to prevent confusion. Den meetings last approximately one hour. Leadership responsibilities are shared by the den leader, assistant den leader, and families in the den.

The den meeting program includes the following parts, detailed for each adventure in the den leader guide for your position:

1. Before the Meeting. The den leader and assistant den leader make final preparations.
2. Gathering. As Cub Scouts arrive, they join in a game or activity with help from the host adult partner for that month. The den leader and assistant den leader collect dues, take attendance, and check on completion of requirements.
3. Opening. The den participates in a simple opening ceremony that includes the Scout Oath and Scout Law plus the Pledge of Allegiance.
4. Activities. Cub Scouts do activities related to the completion of the den's current Adventure.
5. Closing. The den leader gives reminders and shares a closing thought, and the den holds a brief inspirational closing ceremony.
6. After the Meeting. The den leader and assistant den leader discuss plans for the next week's meeting, while the host adult partner with the Cub Scouts puts the room back in order.

THE CUB SCOUT UNIFORM

The uniform is a method of the Cub Scouting program. It identifies youth and adults as part of a team and provides a sense of belonging to the den, the pack, and Scouting America. It also instills a sense of pride as the uniform is where awards and achievements are displayed. Most Cub Scout-age children love wearing their Cub Scout uniform. Uniforms should be worn to all den meetings, pack meetings, and special pack activities.

Lions — an official Lion T-shirt and hat. Lions may choose to wear official blue Cub Scout uniform shorts, pants or skorts, Cub Scout belt, blue and gold socks, gold neckerchief, and Lion neckerchief slide. There are several options for Lions to allow for flexibility. The Lion den should, as a group, be uniformed to achieve the purpose of building a sense of belonging.

Tigers — the navy blue Cub Scout uniform shirt, navy blue pants, shorts or skort, the blue web belt, and the orange neckerchief, slide, and cap.

WHAT DO YOU INVEST IN CUB SCOUTING?

- One meeting each week for either a den meeting, pack meeting, or pack committee meeting.
- Time spent communicating with families in your den.
- One meeting each month for the Cub Scout roundtable.
- Time spent planning and preparing the activities for den meetings and gathering materials.
- Time spent in Cub Scout leader training.
- Cost of the Cub Scout leader uniform.
- Registration fee.

This adds up to a small investment, compared to the dividends you will receive. And, of course, the more you invest, the more you and your Cub Scout you can expect to receive in return.

WHAT DO YOU RECEIVE IN RETURN?

- The opportunity to create the foundation for a strong lifelong bond with your child.
- Make new friends with families in your community.
- A monthly gathering of fun and fellowship with pack families, sharing their pride in their child's accomplishments.
- The opportunity to meet your child's peers and their parents and to enable your child to form healthy friendships.
- A sense of pride as you watch the Cub Scouts receive recognition for their accomplishments.
- An opportunity to share your ideas and experiences with other adults who share your interest in and concern for youth.
- Watching Cub Scouts grow and mature as they strive to live up to the Scout Oath and Scout Law.
- The opportunity to help youth learn good citizenship and shape them into young adults who have strength of character and are sensitive to the needs of others.
- The satisfaction of being a member of a worldwide organization and pride in being publicly identified as a part of this organization by wearing the uniform, which is a visible means of showing that you believe in and stand for its ideals and objectives.

You will discover many other dividends that will enrich your life as you dedicate your time, talent, and enthusiasm to Cub Scouting.

All leaders bring to Cub Scouting their own talents, skills, backgrounds, and interests. Your key to becoming an effective leader is to use your own abilities and interests, along with what you learn about Cub Scouting, to plan and conduct the best possible program for the families in your den. What happens in the life of each child during the formative years will determine to a great extent the kind of adult they will become. What a tremendous opportunity and challenge for you, the den leader!
